

Dan Barry

ICAC Investigations Specialist

Dan Barry is a retired law enforcement detective with over 20 years of serving and protecting victims of sexual abuse and exploitation. He holds a bachelor's degree in the Administration of Justice from Arizona State University and worked as an Internet Crimes Against Children Investigator for 11 years with the Tucson, Arizona Police Department.

Dan also worked child sex crimes cases prior to his ICAC experience and finished his career working in digital forensics as a member of the Tucson Police Crime Lab. Dan was the lead investigator in over 150 prosecutions regarding child sexual abuse and exploitation and regularly provided expert testimony in both state and federal court proceedings. He has received awards for his service within the Tucson community and from the United States Attorney's Office.

He has always strived to support victims and hopes to continue that mission with Zero Abuse Project.
